Windows of . . .

Life is a series of windows: some open, some closed. In the past four years at Longmeadow High School, the Class of 1983 pursued different windows of interest: academic, athletic, social.

Freshman year. Graduation was a far away dream that no one really envisioned. More importantly, we were concerned with finding our classes or just knowing someone who had our study.

Sophomore year. The windows all seemed closer to our grasp. We became more involved in extra-curricular activities as we began to comprehend the routine functions of LHS. Outside of school, various sixteen year olds, clutching newly-won driving permits, could be seen learning how to drive.

Junior year. The main lesson we learned is that pressure can cause many windows to shatter. Grades that were so easy to get freshman and sophomore year now became a challenge. Homework became a way of life and SAT's, AP's, and Achievements, unpleasant realities.

Senior year. We were forced to handle the fragility of different windows. For example, how do we balance academics, college applications, class activities and a social life all at once?

The faculty and administration at LHS are responsible for showing us different aspects of life. We saw the teacher as an educator and, at the same time, we saw the teacher as a human being with a life outside the classroom. Academically, our minds leaped from freshman gym to senior English. Unfortunately, at times, we spent the 54 minutes daydreaming through the classroom windows rather than listening to our faculty lecture.

Outside of school, each Longmeadow student formed individual windows involving work or family life or close friends. During weekends these solitary windows merged to form the famous Longmeadow social gathering, "the Party."

Proposition 2½ tried to slam a few windows shut. We went from four classes of gym a week to only two classes a week. Compromises were made to open some of these windows — such as the User's Fee established for sports. The school and administration placed obstacles and locks on some of our open windows. Our no pass corridors were abolished, the student lounge disappeared, and the breakfast bar limited. Yet, even with all these adjustments, as graduation finally approached, the diploma was distinctly visible through the glass, and the Class of 1983 has left the window ajar, with the future blowing through!

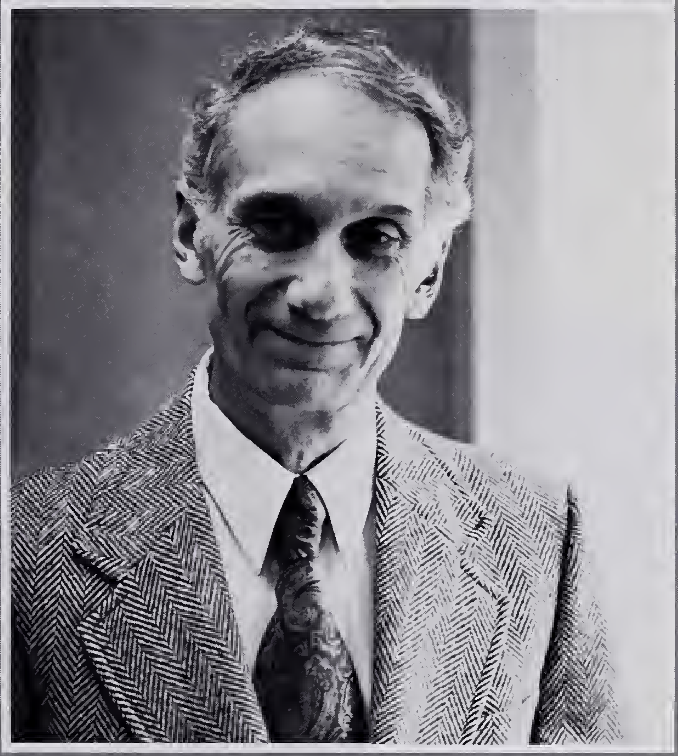
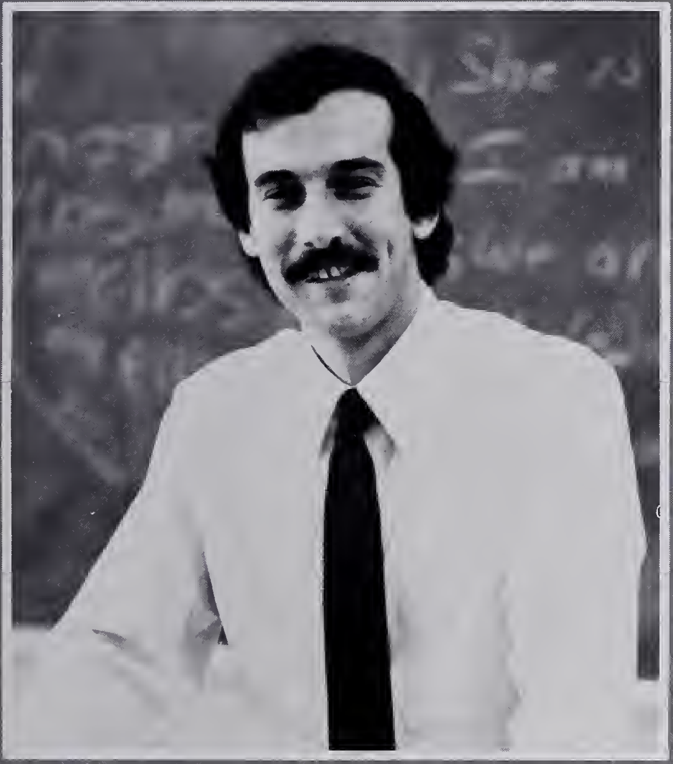
The theme we have chosen for the 1983 Masackic is "Windows," more specifically, "Opening Windows." We tried to show that our four years at LHS have opened many windows of knowledge, culture, and fun for us.

For these new insights, we thank our parents, our friends, and especially our teachers who have done so much to shape our lives. However, there are always a few special people who, through selfless dedication and supreme effort, have opened many new and exciting windows for hundreds of students at LHS. We would like to honor two of these special people, one for enriching our lives in more ways then we can count, and the other for bringing a feeling of warmth and friendliness to a position that directly affects all of us. To thank these two outstanding members of the Longmeadow High School staff for all they have given us, we dedicate the 1983 Masackic to Mr. Al Lopes and to Mr. Dennis Pike.





Through harder glass than window glass
I watch the children play.
I smile to think that I was playing
Only yesterday.

But who will I be in an hour's time?
Where will my window be?
What will I think when the curtains are drawn·
Will I smile, again, at me?

Last June before the close of school we met with the class officers to select committee chairpersons and plan the senior year. As we considered the months ahead, we wondered if we would ever get everything done. The first week of school, when the cap and gown representatives, the banquet, prom, homecoming, and class play people were demanding our attention, and over a hundred rowdie seniors showed up at the class council, we began to panic. What had we gotten ourselves into?

So we write this passage, a few days after the performance of Anything Goes, we realize that when you get a group of capable people together for a common goal, everything goes; it goes well and it goes quickly. Traditionally classes thank their advisors and teachers for the help they have given them. Here we would like to thank the class for its cooperation, its efforts and the lesson that young people will assume responsibility, will work together and will get things done.

FRIENDS

Did you ever wonder what Friends are for
Did you ever stop and think
Try to picture the chain of life
And friends, the missing link.

Have you ever been so down in doubt
So stricken with despair
You looked around and then you found
That there was no-one there?

Now look again, you've got a friend
A friend that's always there.
A person you can talk to,
Who'll listen, help, and care.

We're growing up, we're moving on.
We'll go our separate ways.
But don't forget the day we met
Remember the good ol' days!

We laughed, we cried, we always tried.
Our youth to keep within.
We fought, my Friend, but in the end,
Our friendship stands to win.

It's '83, the way to be
At last!, Our final year.
Hold on to all the good times
Our time to go is near.

Have you ever been so down in doubt.
So stricken with despair.
You looked around and then you found.
Your best of friends were there!

DAISIES

The annual Daisy Weeds football game was won this year by the Weeds team. The weeds were coached by Ike Glasgow, Scott Hobbs, and Mr. LeBlanc; the Daisies were coached by Robo Quinn, Web Fletcher and Mr. Daniels. Angel Wrona, Sue Bewsee and Shawn Bromley demonstrated supreme running and touchdown ability for the Weeds while Missy Freedman, Mona Devine and Anne Dowd contributed speed and agility to the Daisy Team. The game raised spirit and new friendships for the senior girls.

Now I have seen that sad surrender in my lover's eyes.
I can only stand apart and sympathize.
For we are always what our situation hands us . . .
It's either sadness or euphoria.

So we'll argue and we'll compromise
And realize that nothing's ever changed.
For all our mutual experience
Our separate conclusions are the same.

Now we are forced to recognize our inhumanities,
A reason co-exists with our insanities.
So we chose between reality and madness
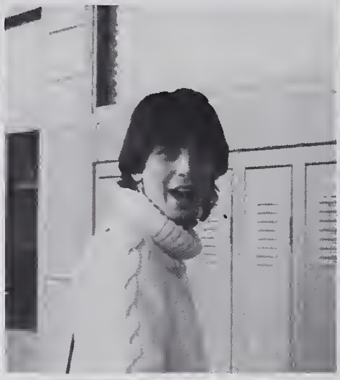
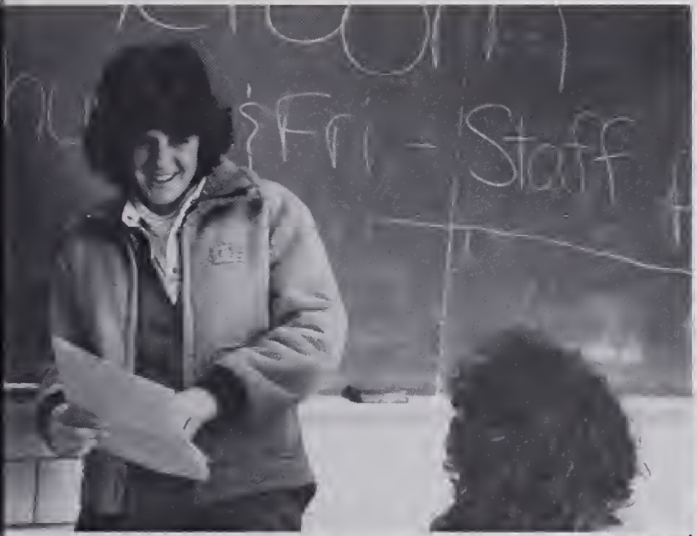
It's either sadness or euphoria.

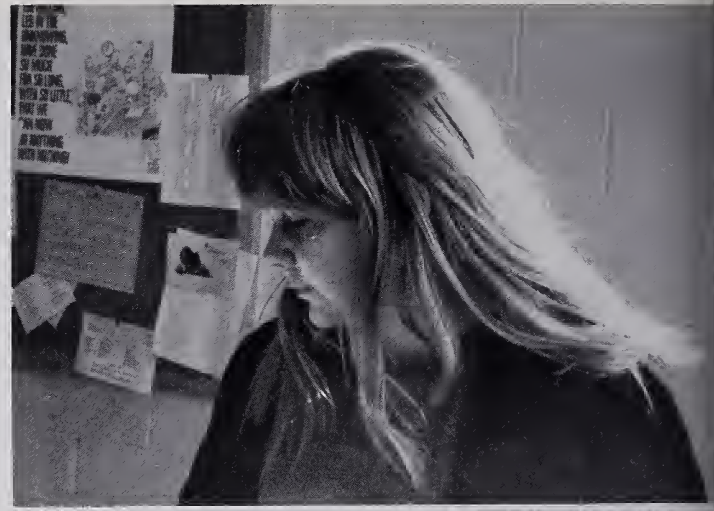


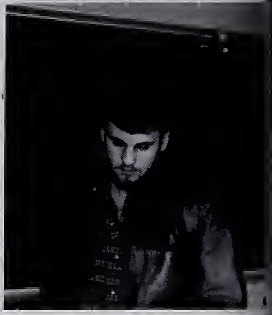


How thoughtlessly we dissipate our energies.
Perhaps we don't fulfill each others fantasies.
So we stand upon the ledges of our lives
With our respected similarities . . . .
It's either sadness or euphoria.

I wanna be bad and not even care.
I wanna go out of my head somewhere.
I wanna go crazy like the dogs in the yard.
I wanna cut the rope . . .
It's getting so much harder.

I think I'll play poker, stay out every night,
Throw stones in the water in the morning -
light.
I wanna be lazy like the dogs in the yard.
Why can't I fly tonight?
Why can't I sleep all morning?
I'm going out of my mind tonight;
That's where I'm going . . .
That's where I'm going.





Gonna have a good time
Before it's too late.
Come on baby, let's go up town and celebrate,
We're gonna celebrate.
We're gonna run crazy like the dogs in the yard.
We're gonna fly tonight.
We're gonna sleep all morning.
We're going out of our minds tonight,
That's where we're going . . .
That's where we're going.

Football

With a winning season, many talented seniors, and a host of promising underclassmen, the Longmeadow High School varsity football team has been a great success. Leading the team to a victorious season were senior captains Scott Hobbs, Robert Quinn, Ike Glascow, and Web Fletcher, led by coach, Michael Deary.. With a smashing overall record of seven wins and only three losses, the season turned out highly successful. In league games the Lancers had five wins and only two losses. Many skillful seniors aided the team to a triumphant season, including such outstanding players as Joel Micucci, Theo Nyman, Richard Joseph, Patrick Dawson, Mike Farrell, Mike Sherman, Jimmy Stone, Scott Copland, Jerry Lang, John McGuinness, and David Singer.

Although the seniors will be missed, many talented underclassmen will lead the Lancer football team next year. A few of these future stars are sophomore, Randy Hobbs and junior, John Scheehan. Next year these players and many others will lead the Lancers to another winning season.

Coach Deary rated this season as a very successful one with the Lancers closing out the year with an outstanding win over the East Longmeadow Spartans. Longmeadow's fourteen to six victory made the homecoming game a memorable event. An excellent record, some great seniors, skilled underclassmen, and great coaching made this year a successful football season.

Soccer

Who were the League champs? The Lancer booters, that's who! This year the varsity soccer team was one of the best Longmeadow High School has ever seen. They closed the season with nine wins, four losses and two ties. Led by the excellent coaching of Ron Morisette and the three senior captains, Bob Cwieka, Rob Little and Davis Paulidies, the team relied on their many faithfully attended rigorous practice sessions to increase their playing capabilities. According to Coach Morisette, "They were really great kids."

The senior support within the team came from many veteran varsity players. Always dependable was goaltender John Ratkowski. Playing fullback, stalwart Matt Daniels added his skill. Mike Coco, as sweeper, provided a solid defense in front of the goal. The hard-working Mike Vinick, playing wing, flew past opponents to give the Lancers a famous "hat trick." The championship team provided excitement for their loyal fans. The players never gave up and often times won a come-from-behind victory. They ended the season first in their league, only to lose the Western Mass. Finals to the second place team, Northampton. While they may not be the best in Western Massachusetts, they surely deserve much praise for their great effort. "Good Job Guys!!!"

Cheerleading

"Lancers are #1, and don't you forget it!" The Longmeadow High School Cheerleaders make sure that nobody does forget it. A good cheerleading squad needs a variety of characteristics: dedication, coordination, gymnastic ability, and enthusiasm. Our fall cheerleading squads have all of these, and in a large supply! This year the varsity cheerers boast eight seniors: returning co-captains Allison Blair and Chris Hoffer, Allison Spitzer, Pam Burchette, Alyce Walker, Elise Katz, Chris O'Conner, and Mary Dolce. But, according to Springfield College coach Alysia Mastrangelo, the Junior varsity squad, headed by Juniors Kathy Cruz and Lisa Weiner, will have no trouble keeping up to the varsity standard. The Longmeadow cheerleaders will always be winning.

Soccer

The girls' 1982 soccer team showed immense determination and will to improve. Considerable diligence combined with coach Mike McCarthy's dedication resulted in great improvements in the teams overall skills. Senior tri-captains Anne Marie Dowd, Dianne Marr, and Naomi Schupack were consistant players for the Lancers. Highlights of the season included a win over East Longmeadow, and a tie with the highly competitive West Springfield team. These successes were due to the team's improved defense, passing, and overall teamwork skills. Underclassmen who proved to be very valuable players during crucial games were halfback Lori Picard and fullback Laura Hyman. Goalie Cathy Davitt did a fantastic job of preventing the opposing teams from scoring. The team looks forward to next season with excitement and eagerness. They hope to surpass this year's performance, a very likely possibility, because the team is very young, and there will be many devoted players returning.

Field Hockey

Teamwork, dedication, and enthusiasm: three key words to describe how the varsity and junior varsity field hockey teams at Longmeadow High School achieved success this season. Led by team co-captains Lisa Doherty and Mona Devine, the varsity team sported an 8-3-1 record this season. With the leadership of coach Ann Simons, outstanding players like Pam Leagus and Tracee Murphy on defense, May Briones, Buzzle Hayes, Mellinda Lawson, and Carolyn Croteau on offense and Sarah Roth and Lynne Kaplinsky, who share the unforgiving position of goalie, have shown their winning form. Other senior players include Helen Savich, Paula Venti, and JoAnne Cardoropoli. Fielding a great team we at Longmeadow High School should be proud of our superb varsity team.

The accomplishments of the junior varsity team are equally commendable since coach Lee-Ann Mercadante's team can boast of a 5-2-1 record. Although all the players on the team are dedicated and very enthusiastic, some of the standouts include Sam Plumb and Beth White on offense, Laura De Persis on defense and the promising Judy Eickhoff in goal. Both teams should be praised for a fine season and a promising future.

The Longmeadow Cross-Country team

Cross Country

A tradition has been developing in the Longmeadow Cross-Country team- a tradition of strong squads and consistent wins. The remarkable varsity team was led by Juniors Robert White and John O'Rourke. Both runners qualified for the Valley Wheel All-stars, a significant acknowledgement of their abilities. Rounding out the starting five runners were Seniors Joe Flanagan and Howard Horowitz and Sophomore Andy Willse. This relatively young squad, boasting only two seniors, had an outstanding year. The season ended with a 9-2 record and a second place finish in Division B. The Junior Varsity was equally impressive. This team has remained undefeated since September of 1980 and holds an unbelievable three year record of 35-3. Overall, the cross-country teams have met every goal anticipated by expert coach Mr. Joseph Winseck. Although the two seniors will be missed, Coach Winseck expects to win every meet next year. Judging from past history and present talent, this goal is very realistic and attainable.

Gymnastics

Although gymnastics may be a sport for individuals, at LHS these "individuals" make up a very successful and spirited team. Each girl performs hoping to better, not only her own score, but to aid the team effort. And this year the team effort has really shown. High scores were abundant, including Connie Leavitt's school record of 8.80 on floor exercise and a top team score of 120 points at the Western Mass. tournament. Coached by Judy Gregory and led by Junior co-captains Sheree Feinberg, Marcie Leopold, and Connie Leavitt, the team has had yet another outstanding year colminating in a third place in Western Mass. The girls showed a genuine concern for one another, creating an atmosphere that led to top performances. This spirit will most surely continue next season when a team with no seniors and some remarkable underclassmen head into an exceptional future. Undoubtedly, the favorite cheer of the Longmeadow girls' gymnastics team will have special meaning: Go-Fight-Win!

Gymnastics

Gymnastics may be a sport of individuals, but at Longmeadow High School, these individuals make up a very spirited and successful team. Led by coach John Kober, this group had an impressive record of 4-2. This great success was due to the leadership of such outstanding gymnasts as Joe Franson and Larry Paquette, both of whom made the All Western Massachusetts Team. In fact, Joe Franson impressively placed third in the all around championships of the Western Massachusetts competition. Despite the fact that many valuable seniors had graduated last year, these relatively young gymnasts have shown the determination and potential of a great team.

Swimming

Hard work and determination paved the way for the 1983 edition of the Lancerette swimmers. Practicing twice a day, the girls improved steadily throughout the season. They got off to an excellent start, picking off four formidable rivals: Westfield, Minnechaug, Cathedral, and Northampton. The Northampton meet was tagged as a key encounter, but the Longmeadow team demonstrated their superiority, winning handily.

Another segment of the Lancerette success story was the excellent coaching. Once again Mark Michelson, assuming the duties of head coach, led his team to victory. He was assisted by the able Billy Vivier.

Although the team's success was based largely on teamwork, the talent of key individuals was evident. Senior Karen Fraser, who was a consistent performer in previous years, was again a valuable team member. Juniors made up a large contingent of the squad. Breastrokers Leslie Slater and Bethany Leonovich excelled, as did free-stylist Katie Fitzgibbons. Sophomore Judy Tripp was a valuable addition to the team as were freshmen Tina Rosenthal and Debbie Quatrrochi.

No doubt about it; the Lancerette swimmers have demonstrated their desire, depth and versatility. Not only do they look like a clear cut favorite in the Western Mass. Championships, but they may also be the queens of the seas for many years to come.

Swimming

With only two losses, both coming against archrival Minnechaug, the boys' swim team of 1982-83, coached by Mark Michelson, experienced a phenominal season. The second of these two losses was a depressing one because it was tied until the final heat, at 79-79, but Minnechaug pulled out a slim 87-85 victory. Captains Jim McCann and Tom Ferrin were instrumantal in numerous ways. McCann participated in many events including freestyle, breaststroke and butterfly. Ferrin, on the other hand, was an outstanding diver who ranked among the top ten in Western Mass. and broke the school diving record this year. Other important swimmers were juniors, Rowland Wu and Will Masi, and sophomore, Jack Dolan, all of whom added great depth to this super team. The swimmers were subjected to an intense training program devised by Coach Michelson, including a weight program to build muscles. Having splashed through the Western Mass. finals, the boys' swim team looks toward another incredible season.

Slapshots! Breakaways! Scores! The Longmeadow High varsity hockey team's proud heritage carried the team far this season. Although the team only sported a 1-3 record at the beginning of the season, team members were confident that more victories would soon pass to them. Last year's outstanding seniors contributed to the Western Mass. Championship in 1982. Obviously, losing the senior players has diminshed the team's overall strength. But under Coach Ray Suzor, new talents will be discovered for next year. Yet this year's team was not to be taken lightly. Seniors Jim Stone and Tim Dineen, along with newcomer Bruce Andrews, served as tri-captains of the team. Experience was still helpful on the team. Members looked forward to the big games with teams such as Agawam and Cathedral, to show their rivals just how good they were. The team's greatest strength was its speed; that speed, some experience, and much enthusiasm, carried the Lancers far in their quest for another Western Mass. Championship.

Longmeadow High hoopsters were in a hoopla! This incredibly awesome team seemed to succeed in a tough Division B. Led by captains Matt Daniels, Scott Hobbs, and Mike Crosby, the team finished at the top of their league. Other standouts were forward Dan McLaughlin and newcomer Darren Gibson. Spirit: that's what the Lancer girls' basketball team displayed, both in their play and off the court. And their powerful comeback this season proved it. With the confidence and support of an experienced coach and a diverse team of talented hoopsters, this spirit was evident. Their coach, Carol Moore from Springfield College, was enthusiastic; she returned this year for her third season with the team. Also welcomed this year is Janice Watt, also from SC, to coach the junior varsity team. The varsity team was composed of freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors, a mix which made for a diversified group. The girls worked well together and matched their spirit and strong performance with good sportsmanship. The only two returning seniors on the team, Beth Sutton and Lisa Doherty, were the star forwards. Junior members included Cathy Davitt, Kim Laakso, Kerry Flanagan and Jenny Radding. Nadia Massanat was a new asset to the team as a senior A.F.S. exchange student. Lori Picard, Jennifer Daniels, and varsity newcomers, May Briones and Paula Katsoulis were sophomores. Joanne Kotwicki and Amy Blanchard were two fantastic freshmen with much potential. The team enjoyed a season of continued success. Here's to the Lancerette Spirit!

A diverse team with unusual depth, the Longmeadow High School Ski Team was in its own words, "TOTALLY AWESOME!" The boys, led by expert skier and Captain Tim Dow and anchored by returning Seniors Greg Burt and Jeff Hanson displayed a strong competitive spirit together with a good use of experience. The girls, also exemplified meet-winning form. Continual Senior standouts and co-captains Anne-Marie Dowd, Missy Freedman, and Naomi Schupack led an exceptional team, starring Senior Sandy Ertelt, Juniors Betsy Cain and Kate Lantz, and many up-and-coming underclassmen. According to first-year coach Rebecca Folta, a professional ski instructor, they are a "real good group of kids with winning attitudes."

Their dedication, experience, and obvious talent led to Lancer dominance over such strong competition as McDuffy's, Cathedral, and Minnechaug. But, we always have high expectations for our outstanding ski teams at LHS.

Wrestling

Crunch! Ugh! Bam! These sounds may be heard from the opponents of the LHS wrestling team. The LHS wrestlers must be in top physical shape to handle any opponent. Each of the twenty-two wrestlers worked out every day for two and one half to three hours. In addition to this workout, time was spent jogging to prepare for the two meets each week. According to coach Roger Moss, the wrestlers showed a great deal of enthusiasm, and team spirit was high. Because the team consisted of many freshmen and sophomore wrestlers, this year was a rebuilding year. Led by Senior Captain John McGuiness, the young team was well prepared for their many challenging meets. The team also had strong support from seniors Rusty Andrews, Scott Clark, Kurt LeDuc, and Joel Micucci. Joe Franson, a junior, will be a definite asset to next year's squad. The LHS "men of muscle" look forward to more promising and successful years.

Juniors

You're almost there, Juniors! After three successful years at LHS, the Juniors are rolling along. The class spirit has increased under the leadership of President, Kathy Collaro, and the two zealous advisers, Mr. Richard Rediker and Mrs. Jane Murphy. Emphasis has been placed on student participation in all class activities. Such activities include the homecoming dance and bonfire, the movie night, and the semi-formal with the Seniors. With such spirited and dedicated people, the class of '84 will surely provide leadership in their senior year.

Sophomores

We're in the dough! The class of 1985 began high school with a successful freshman year by raising almost $5,000. President Jeff Reynolds, Vice President Jennifer Daniels, Secretary Tammy Lentino and Treasurer Jennifer Sweet continued their success this year by again collecting class dues, creating a great float, dreaming-up fund-raisers, and raising class spirit. With the help of advisors Mrs. Mary Ann Sedran and Mr. Vito Riccio, all goals were enthusiastically accomplished. The class of '85 looks forward to a successful junior year, because of their class unity and eagerness to help participate in activities.

Freshmen

The Freshman class of 1986 started the year with great enthusiasm. The two experienced advisors, Mr. Ray McKenna and Mr. Ron Hirsch, both feel that the class of "86" is extra-special. "The kids are absolutely superb!" exclaimed Mr. McKenna. The class is planning to sponsor many activities this year to raise funds for their graduation. "Go For It, 86!"

Masacksic

8

The birth of the book you now hold in your hands occurred, not in the printer's press at the American Yearbook company, but here at Longmeadow High School in room 110. The Masacksic experience provides good training for students who must meet deadlines and perform responsibly. Under the leadership of a qualified, carefully chosen group of editors, the staff contributed much time and energy to the creation and production of this book. The editors-in-chief, Lynne Kaplinsky and Tracee Murphy, together with Advisor Mel Grant, spent long hours in pursuit of an excellent finished product. Mr. Grant was always available for consultation to make sure the yearbook had that final shine. Since May, the yearbook has grown with the addition of many new ideas in the areas of artwork, writing, layout and business. Masacksic reflects Longmeadow High School and its people — students, faculty, and staff — and this year's issue is sure to be as captivating and sophisticated as ever: nothing less than a compliment to the graduating class of 1983!

Key Club

"Because I wanted to get involved!" For many Key Clubbers, this describes why they joined.

The Longmeadow Key Club, consisting of ninety members, has been rated number one in New England. Mr. Jim Climo is the advisor that motivates this striving group. Although last year the Key Club raised over twenty-two hundred dollars, this year they hope to do better.

Among their various projects, they sponsor an annual variety show. This show not only allows expression for the creative talent in the high school, but the proceeds are donated to the New England Pediatric Trauma Institute and the Shriners Hospital. The Longmeadow Key Club also provides assistance to various organizations. For example, two of their projects include the annual "Toys for Tots" drive and the weekly visits to the Shriners Hospital. During the visits to the hospital, the Key Clubbers entertain the children, but most importantly they discover things about themselves that they never realized before.

Keyettes

If service is being done, and a bright, smiling female is at work, one can be sure she is a Keyette. Keyettes, a service organization for girls, helps the community by doing things like ushering at Stage West, volunteering at Shriner's Hospital and the Nursing Home, and bringing the Blood Mobile to Longmeadow High School. This year they are involved with an international project which deals with the Sudden Death Syndrome. The district project is called Hospice.

Many of the 85 LHS Keyettes will attend the convention this year in Arlington, Virginia. They wish to bring home many awards this year because last year they came in second in achievement of the Gold Division, and they received an award for having the best Founders Week activities. This year they are aiming for a first in the Gold Division and an award for their scrapbook.

Longmeadow and the high school can be very proud of these hardworking Keyettes!

Jet Jotter

Under the leadership and guidance of Mr. John Fitzgerald, the Jet Jotter staff has once again completed a successful year by producing one of the best high school newspapers in the state. At a recent journalism conference held by Holyoke Community College, the Jet Jotter swept up four impressive awards. They were recognized for best advertisement for OKLAHOMA, best headline, best layout, and best overall newspaper.

Besides the attributes already mentioned, the Jotter also boasts of its excellent political and sports articles. Led by Robert Cohen, editor, the competent Jet Jotter staff has put together a commendable newspaper. Although the formidable deadlines often cause great amounts of tension for the staff, the results are a professional quality from many hours of hard work. Keep the presses rolling!

Oklahoma

8

"Round up d'em doggies." Does this sound familiar? it should, because the Longmeadow High School drama club put on one of their most successful musicals ever, "Oklahoma." Every performance was jammed with cheering people who got caught up in the exciting numbers. The cast included many seasoned veterans of the drama club. Senior Ted Gilman played his lead "Curly" with great character and excellent singing. The others in the cast included Jennifer Ribble as "Laurey," Paul Titus in his acting debut as "Will Parker," Marcy Dobkin as "Ado Annie Carnes," and special recognition should be given to Angel Wrona for her beautiful ballet. Others in the cast deserve the praise of all. The orchestra and Mr. William Burkle performed in full form every night. The stage crew deserve credit for their coordinating expertise. Much thanks to Mr. Mike Mucci in his position as producer and director, and Miss Linda Segur for her skill in choreographing this production. "Oklahoma" was a great success.

As Schools Match Wits

Factual knowledge, quick recall, and, most of all, enthusiasm for competition are three basic qualities to be found in Longmeadow's As Schools Match Wits Team. The team is comprised of four members and an alternate chosen from the club. This year, Longmeadow's contest against Williston-Northampton was telecast on Christmas night and thus had to be filmed in November. Team members Rob Cohen, Dan Connell, Kitsey Rigby, and Chris Sterba played an impressive match and came close to defeating the opposition, losing by only 50 points, 160-110. Club advisor Beth Young urges more and more students to try out for the team each year in order to secure closer matches in the future. The practice sessions are interesting and the competition, challenging.

Foreign Language Clubs

Take a look at what's been going on in our language department. The Latin Club, under the direction of Nancy Dudley, and the Spanish Club, advised by Mr. George Carellas, have become an integral part of the school. For example, Latin Club attended a Roman banquet and entered a catapult contest in which they won a trophy for their efforts. With proconsuls, Kathy Ahrens and Rachael Kittredge, Latin Club has become a colorful addition to our school. Also, the Spanish Club has reached a new height this year. They held a jellybean guessing contest and a carnation sale to raise money to sponsor a Mexican child. In addition, speakers have been invited to educate members in Spanish life. No doubt, these two clubs have become very exciting organizations.

National Honor Society

A gold tassel on a graduation cap surely signifies a member of National Honor Society. NHS, a service club for the school is an organization which recognizes scholarship among Longmeadow High School students. President Helen Savich, Vice President Matt Daniels, Secretary Tina Banson, Treasurer Andy Skoler, Social Secretary Lynne Kaplinsky and Tutoring Chairpersons Naomi Schupack and Gregg Rogers run the National Honor Society with the help of advisors Mrs. Eve Dolgin and Mrs. Nancy Dudley.

Twenty-three juniors made NHS this year to swell the ranks to over one hundred. The National Honor Society raises money with a Parents' Night Bake Sale, a ping pong tournament and by working at the Lancer Book Store. However, one of the most important services they do is tutoring students in the high school who need help. They also service the community through the Internship and Mentor Programs. For over twenty years NHS has served the school and community.

AFS

The American Field Service is an international club which allows students to experience living in a foreign country. This intercultural exchange gives the students an understanding of cultures different from their own. This understanding is essential when one considers world peace.

AFS has held many successful events under the leadership of co-presidents Maura Malone and Karen Edler. This year's AFS students are Nadia Masannat from Jordan, Ingrid Hager from Austria, and Pellegrina "Pina" Leo from Venezuela. AFS meets the second Tuesday of every month, at which time the members discuss new projects. The fall carnival, short-term exchange, and international dinner are just a few of the upcoming events. AFS has a busy and exciting year ahead.

Outlet

Do you need an "Outlet"? Of course, you do-especially a creative one like Longmeadow High School's literary magazine. Outlet. Staff members and advisor Linda McShane work most of the year to develop ideas for this publication, and around January the student body is asked for contributions of short stories, photographs, artwork, and poetry, at which time the staff selects the best works to publish in the magazine.

This year's magazine promises to be a rewarding one also, giving all the students the opportunity to express themselves in a unique way, and to be "heard" by the school and outside community. Outlet always welcomes new members, new and old contributors, and especially new readers, new discoverers of young talent. This year, why not pick up a copy? After all, everyone needs an "Outlet"!

Homecoming Week

Homecoming '82: What a great year! Although it was a blustery November day, the whole school took part in this wonderful show of Lancer pride with all four classes displaying their creations built with the help of many people. Following the theme, "Art, the universal language," the sophomore class took first place honors with a float depicting the many forms of art, including music. Both the Daisy/Weed "cheerleaders" and the regular football cheerleaders led the parade, followed by the "marching" band playing many rousing choruses of "Lancers Will Shine." Everyone was in the mood to "squash the Spartans." The floats soon followed creating a colorful scene. Bringing up the rear were carloads of screaming female football players with, of course, the yellow Daisies and the green Weeds in separate cars. This well known "football game" followed the parade. Congratulations to all who helped in this event. Homecoming '82 was a great success and will be remembered by all who participated.

Aides

Every year certain students choose to give up their free blocks and afternoons to aid Miss Marge Baird, Mr. Peter Bergeron, Mrs. Poppy Pratt, and Mr. Merril Oltchick with their various duties around the school. These helpful students are the Library and Audio-Visual aides. The A. V. aides under advisor Mr. Oltchick help in providing lighting and technical expertise for school musicals, plays, concerts, and other activities. While learning complex skills, these students are at the same time a great asset to the school. The library aides are also an important part of LHS. They, too, learn the skills of checking out and filing books while playing an integral role in the efficient running of our school's library. The A.V. and library aides are a dedicated group of students who should be congratulated for their good work.

Junior Achievement

Junior Achievement symbolizes the evergrowing interest which students have in the business world. This national organization strives to get students directly involved with businesses to discover how this world functions. Mr. O'Sullivan is the advisor for Junior Achievement in the high school. Through Junior Achievement, students make friends, learn about others, and most importantly, broaden their horizons.

Math Team

Although many students at L.H.S. cringe at the thought of math, members of the Math Team thrive on it. Under the supervision of Math Department Chairman Mr. Daniels, the team consists of Evan Greenburg, Alan Burkle, Martin Banson, Kathy Ahrens, Mitchell Dickerman and Noel Burke. During the school year, the team participates in five meets against rivals such as East Longmeadow and Minnechaug. Team members do not practice as a group, but rely on their own abilities to carry them to victory.

Domestic Exchange

That's right . . . a new club has begun at LHS! The Domestic Exchange, headed by advisor Roger Leblanc, worked on the itinerary for a student exchange with another school in the United States. Because the national Domestic Exchange admitted the fifteen LHS members into their club in the middle of the school year, the LHS Domestic Exchange had difficulty exchanging with another school. However, in January, the LHS Domestic Exchange captured the Springfield newspapers' sports headlines by holding a wrestling match between well-known wrestlers. People of all ages packed the LHS gymnasium for that unusual event. The Domestic Exchange Club, in its first year of existence, has already achieved success.

"Strike up the band! We've got the sound at LHS." 1982-1983 was an excellent year for the LHS band. This group demonstrated growth, dedication, and versatility. Under the able direction of diligent Mr. Wilfred Burkle, the band gave many exciting performances. Highlights of the season included fall, winter, and spring concerts. The band also fulfilled its traditional obligation of "marching" at Lancer home football games during the fall.

In a regional Eastern coast competition against other high school bands, our LHS band was distinguished with fourth place. Also, for the first time in 28 years, the LHS band was given band jackets! Band members were measured in September and the long-awaited jackets arrived in March. Membership in the Band also increased during the school year. At last count, there were almost 100 students actively participating. We certainly can "toot our horns" with the best.

Chorus

Along with the number of participants, the reputation of the Longmeadow choruses continues to grow. The girls' chorus, mens' chorus, and concert chorus offer a diverse selection of music and instruction in tone, reading music, and voice control, resulting in well developed voices and cohesive groups, best displayed at the successful Winter and Pops concerts. For thirty-two more serious students, Lyrics, complete with homework and tests, offers a rewarding challenge. These Lyrics members illustrated their talents as twenty vocalists received All-State recommendations and twelve attained All-State recognition. Among these outstanding students are seniors Jack Bisikirski, Michelle Romell, Karen Rich, Ted Gilman, Nikki Angellas, and All-Eastern singers Janine Howell and Cheryl Nereau. It is increasingly evident that LHS has many gifted students and a highly successful musical program to serve them.

Ski Club

What happened to the snow this winter? This question was on the minds of the 100 ski club members who anxiously awaited the snow and colder temperatures. The exceptionally warm weather this winter aroused the spirits of the already enthusiastic ski clubbers. The ski club, with advisor Mel Grant and other teacher chaperones, finally reached the Mt. Tom slopes on January 18. This year's ski club also ventured on an afternoon and late night ski trip to Brodie Mountain. Next year, the ski club is planning on another fun winter. And more snow!

Drama Club

Acting is active at Longmeadow High! Under the direction of co-presidents Maura Malone and Kim Sweet, the Drama Club remains one of the school's most popular activities. With a membership that has grown to over sixty members, Maura and Kim, along with treasurer Janine Howell, secretary Lilly Butsky, and advisor Mr. Mucci, describe the club as "very enthusiastic." An outstanding performance of Oklahoma!, well-attended by students from the high school, occurred in November. A one-act comedy, To Burn a Witch, was presented by the club for judging in the Massachusetts High School Drama Guild Theatre Competition in February. Starring Karen Rich, Jennifer Ribble, Maura Malone, and Kim Sweet, the play centered on the Salem witch hunts. Also, two student-directed comedies were successfully performed again in the spring. The Drama Club will continue to bring quality productions to the school in the future.

Miles Of Pennies

It was a long and winding road toward the Longmeadow High Key Clubbers' goal, but they did it: they broke the world record for the longest road of pennies. On March 12, 1983, Key Club members and others met in the LHS gym to break the record by laying down 4.26 miles of pennies. It took about 5 hours to make the giant path which raised about 4,000 dollars for Shriner's Hospital.

Longmeadow High School students and faculty helped support the project, as well as many stores, businesses and the general public who were very generous. Baybank Valley was especially helpful by donating ten cents for every dollar raised. The miles of pennies all went to Shriner's Hospital; pride and success went to the Key Club and Longmeadow High School.

Led by captains Kim Laakso, Lisa Kuerzel and Chris Tazzini, the girls' indoor soccer team enjoyed a successful season. Carried by their spirit and winning attitude, the Lancer girls were always a challenge to the other teams. The games were played on weekends and team participants seemed to switch from week to week. Impressive members include sophomores Alissa Grinspoon, Ann Chambers, Karen Crosby, Cheryl Rogers, Wendy Gessing, Nancy Keeley, and freshmen Cecily Ashe, Lynne Bromley and Jennifer Cummings. Because they were a young team, the LHS indoor soccer team looks forward to a successful season next year.

Metco

Metco, a program which allows inner city Springfield students to attend Longmeadow High School, has enabled a number of students to utilize the many resources of Longmeadow High School. The program's advisor, Mr. Hilton White, aids the new students in formulating a plan which will lead them to a successful career. And even though the Metco students do live in Springfield, their participation in school activities has, by no means, suffered. Many of the students participate in activities such as Key Club, sports, and Lyrics. The Metco students have easily adapted to the close-knit society of Longmeadow High School and enjoy participating in the total school experience.

ABC

ABC, a scholarship program for educationally deprived students of all races, is alive and flourishing at LHS. The eight students, who attend Longmeadow High School because of the ABC program, are an essential part of the student body.

Most of the money donated to ABC comes from organizations, individuals and many Longmeadow families, but ABC also holds fundraisers. For example, the ABC Road Race and the spring tag sale raised over $4,000. ABC, considered one of the most successful minority educational programs in the country, has sent many participants in the program on to college.

Variety Show

If you were there this year, you got involved because audience participation was the main theme for the 1983 Key Club Variety Show. Energetic performances provoked not only those in the show, but those in the audience.

With sold out performances almost every night, a substantial amount of money was raised. This year Key Club sent the proceeds to the Kiwanis Regional Pediatric Trauma Institute.

Producer Ted Gilman, assisted by Peter Venti and Doug Spink, worked long hours to get the show rolling. From auditions to technical rehearsals. these three produced one spectacular show.

Variety '83 exploded with talent and creativity. After a super opening by the hot band, Grafix, the audience knew they were in for an exciting evening. V-Show had everything from comedy with "Brother Can You Spare A Dime," to juggling acts in "Just The Two Of Us." With vitality and enthusiasm, Variety '83 shone in the spotlight.

Out Of School

No one at LHS can say that life in Longmeadow ends at 2:15. For many students, school is only a small part of their busy schedule. We have ambitious students who choose to give up their free afternoons and sports to work at part time jobs. Supermarkets, gas stations, restaurants and various other places provide students with money for cars, colleges and weekends. Also, these jobs provide them with valuable experience.

However, activity for Lancers doesn't end with jobs, either. To some the most important part of the week is the weekend. While some students spend their treasured days off traveling, others pass it at parties with good friends. Then there are the more active groups who spend their time skiing, playing racketball or participating in other sports. Whatever one chooses to do, the end of the school day promises good times for all.

Outing Club

Where will you find people willing to spend a night under the frosty stars, or shoot through rapids of a white-water river? In room 146 on Wednesday afternoons you can find such people: the Outing Club. This group is different from most clubs in the school because competition is not stressed. People join the club for a chance to come closer to nature and to their friends. Mr. Ronald Hirsch, advisor, stressed that being in Outing Club demands many different skills, most of which are taught to club members throughout the year. He also mentioned that leadership and cooperation, two traits developed in this club, are necessary qualities to possess for any future activity. This year with 50 members, the club is planning hiking trips, canoeing, and cross-country skiing trips. Also, the club sponsored the hot cider and doughnut stand at all the home football games. This group creates long-lasting friendships built on cooperation and trust.

Have a problem? The guidance department can help straighten it out. Through the years, the LHS guidance department has helped students overcome all types of difficulties. Anything from adjusting a schedule to choosing a college. Guidance is always there with a smile to assist the students in any way possible.

However, their services are not just confined to the guidance office. Being involved in student activities is a major contribution from this staff. For example, Mr. James Climo is the Key Club advisor, and Mr. Daniel Kane and Mr. David Stockwell are athletic coaches. The guidance department is an important part of the "window opening" process at our high school and will continue to offer service and guidance to the students for many years to come.

Special People

In addition to all the terrific teachers at Longmeadow High School, other very "special people" make their homes here also. Dr. Lamarre and Ms. Beth Young- recognize these names? You will if you frequent the high school reading center. Room 225 is a great place to improve reading skills or to polish the skills you already have. Another favorite place to spend your time at LHS is the school library where Peter Bergeron, Margery Baird, Poppy Pratt, and Irene Beachman work together to make the student center as excellent as it is. Also people like Mrs. Duclos and her staff do a fine job of managing the cafeteria. Mr. Merrill Oltchick, who heads up the audio-visual department is also in charge of public access Channel 8. Mr. Rich Remillard, in charge of maintenance, can often be seen around the school making adjustments and keeping everything running smoothly. And how can we bypass those lovely essentials we call secretaries? Mrs. Margorie Webster cannot be thanked enough for efficiently and calmly processing hundreds of college applications. And a ton of gratitude is due to Evelyn Nakos, Margaret Derby, Marietta Berry, Carolyn Cash, Ann Chambers, Dorothy Perrault, Dorothy Bonsall, and a host of others. All of these people are special indeed.

Business And Practical Arts

The business practical arts staff at Longmeadow High School is dedicated to helping the students "open windows" to their futures. The courses offered are designed to help students after they graduate from high school. Department chairpersons, Sharon Chasser and Gary O'Sullivan, together with other enthusiastic business and practical arts teachers have proved to be very successful in helping those students who go on to careers in business. Such courses as typing, family life education, foods, and clothing are a few examples of the most popular classes. In addition, new this year is the word processing program. This innovation has revolutionized office work in the business world. The program aids those students who wish to enter the rapidly growing field of word processing after graduation.

⊞ ⊞ English

What academic area opens the greatest number of "windows"? The answer is easy: the English department. Devoted to presenting a multitude of "windows" for students to pursue, this department, according to Mr. Al Lopes, offers a great diversity of course offerings, allowing the student to attain an intensive but broad education. English courses, such as literature and composition encourage student input and expression. Also, by studying writers from Chaucer to William Shakespeare to F. Scott Fitzgerald, students can begin to understand and appreciate great literature as well as our modern world. Exposed to so many facets of the English language, the Longmeadow High School student is given the opportunity to seek out and follow his own "windows" of enjoyment and study for the rest of his life.

Foreign Language

The Foreign Language department is filled with a diverse faculty willing to help students "open windows." Mike McCarthy, acting department chairman is pleased with the many languages that "open windows" for students interested in foreign countries. Mr. McCarthy enjoys extra curricular activities. He coaches girls' soccer, skiing, and tennis. In the foreign language department there are two new teachers, Ms. Barbara Jandris and Mr. George Carellas, who is the advisor to the Spanish Club. Veteran teacher, Nancy Dudley, has been loved and admired by LHS students for 23 years. She has served as NHS advisor while at Longmeadow High School. As a Latin teacher she tries to encourage her students interest in Roman culture in many ways. She is advisor to the Latin Club which sponsors a Roman Banquet enabling students to experience the ancient Roman culture first hand. In addition, French and Spanish teacher, Bob Potvin is a skiing enthusiast. Every winter he can be seen challenging the snowy peaks of Mount Tom in Ski Club. Every teacher, in the Foreign Language department, is an individual who contributes outside of Longmeadow High School. Not only do the language teachers create new horizons through their subject matter, but also many of them "open windows" in extra curricular activities.

"They sing like angels!" That's what one faculty member said after attending the annual winter concert. Under the guidance of Peter Thomsen and Michael Mucci, the choruses finished the year "on a high note." Girls' chorus showed depth and growth, while Men's chorus combined for a strongly knit sound. The multi-talented Concert chorus sang with forcefulness and a style all their own.

Lyrics, consisting of the best singers, also achieved remarkable goals. This year Lyrics sent twenty students to audition for District Chorus. Each one not only made District, but also received All-State recommendations. The I. Cantori, made up of Lyric's twelve best singers, produced a thoroughly professional group, which is always a joy to hear.

Throughout the year, the choruses put on various concerts. These included the Winter Concert, Pops Concert, and the Spring Concert. With increasing membership and talent, the music department harmonized a successful year.

The Art department at Longmeadow High School opens many windows to the various aspects of art in our culture. The staff is extremely diversified, each skilled in many art forms from photography to jewelry making. Since many students, because of scheduling are unable to take a desired class, the teachers of that class often instruct students on an independent basis. This staff is truly devoted to broadening the horizons of serious art students.

"Opening windows" of health and enjoyment, physical education at L.H.S. offers a variety of activities. Some of the more popular classes include tennis, basketball, speedball, and softball. This year a new addition, aerobics, has become one of the favorites. These classes provide an equal amount of instruction and playing time, giving the students an opportunity to learn and play different sports. To the students, P.E. is a time for enjoyment along with learning.

Mathematics

How could the math department have 106% of the students in the high school taking a math course? The answer is the new addition of twenty-one PET computers, allowing many LHS students to take more than one math course. According to Mr. Daniels, the head of the math department, his department now offers computer problem solving A & B as well as the regular math curriculum courses. In fact, due to the demand in the math department, two more positions have been created. Two new teachers, Miss Eileen Lynch and Mr. Sheldon Bishov, have joined the math department staff. Certainly, the math department "opens windows" for LHS students.

Science

The science department at Longmeadow High School "opens windows" in many ways — (other than blowing them up!). According to Mr. Ed Pratt, department chairman, windows are opened by offering students the opportunity to as many facets of science as possible and allowing them to find their own particular interests. The science curriculum at LHS offers Biology, Chemistry, Physics, and Earth Sciences, a broad spectrum to instill in our students a real appreciation of the universe around us. But students need not limit themselves to the basic science requirements; there are course like Anthropology and Biological Psychology to improve the thought processes and to explore the human aspect of science. The science department at LHS is "opening windows" - windows to our future.

Social Studies

Did you realize that we at Longmeadow High School have many teachers in our history department who are interested in and knowledgeable about cultures other than our own? For "window openers" we have Mr. Ray McKenna who has travelled to both Eastern and Western Europe. Because he has peeked behind the "iron curtain" he brings back to his Russian History classes first hand accounts of life in the Soviet Union. Mr. Santos, who also loves to travel, teaches several exotic courses. Although very much interested in courses such as Asian Civilization, he has also expressed an interest in taking student groups to Europe. Another history teacher, Ms. Lolene Blake, recently accompanied a group of LHS students to England. These teachers have "opened windows" to other cultures of the world.

Lacrosse

Unbeatable! That's the only way to describe this year's lacrosse team. An excellent combination of experienced Coach Dan Kane, and tri-captains Greg Stebbins, Rob Quinn, and Pat Dawson forged another perfect season. An almost impenetrable defense led by seniors Rick Weiler, Dave McNair, and Pat Dawson, and a dynamic attack led by Bruce Andrews, Greg Stebbins, and Richard Joseph, made the LHS Laxmen awesome. Playing well in mid-field were seniors Dave Smith, Theo Nyman, junior John Sheehan and sophomore Greg Collins. Sophomores showing great promise for the coming years include Matt Woods, David Krumsiek, and Randy Hobbs.

After defeating such highly ranked schools as Choate Academy, the Lancers once more were number one in the state. Although the Seniors are sure to be missed, the team seems to have the ability, determination and spirit to keep the Lancers on top in '84. After all, weren't these the three qualities which have made them one of the most memorable teams ever?

1. Stebbins does it again. 2. Dawson, Krumsiek, and Weiler anxiously await the play. 3. Rich Joseph tries to outsmart his opponent. 4. Goalie Scott Copland waits for a shot on goal. 5. "Cameraderie!" 6. The undefeated Varsity Lacrosse team. 7. J.V. Lacrosse. 8. Coach Kane discusses strategy during half-time. 9. Pat Dawson watches the game from the sideline.

Lacrosse

What does it take to be a dynamite lacrosse team? "Skill and a winning attitude," explained second year Lancerette coach Kathy Parker. And that is exactly what the 1983 girls' lacrosse team displayed. Senior captains Anne Dowd and Lisa Guardione, led the team offensively, assisted by fellow senior Liz Kusiak.

Defensively, senior Karen Pahl played skillfully. With much talent returning next year, especially in the class of '85, Coach Parker anticipates another successful season.

1. Sue Plumb shows her defensive tactics. 2. Longmeadow Girls Lacrosse team: 1st row- A. Dowd, K. Pahl, M. Lawson, L. Guardione, M. Freedman, L. Kusiak, B. Gill. 2nd row- K. Bibeau, S. Weiler, T. Softball

What brought success to the 1983 softball team? A positive attitude. "Each game was played with intensity and enthusiasm," said second year coach Carol Moore, summing up the season. Assistant coach Gwen Keough agreed that consistant pitching and strong defense factored toward a winning season. Tri-captained by Alice Chi, Cathy Davitt, and Buzzie Hayes, the Lancers greatly improved last season's record. Losing only four seniors, Sue Bewsee, Dana Biscotti, Alice Chi, and Karen Edler, Miss Moore anticipates a strong team in 1984.

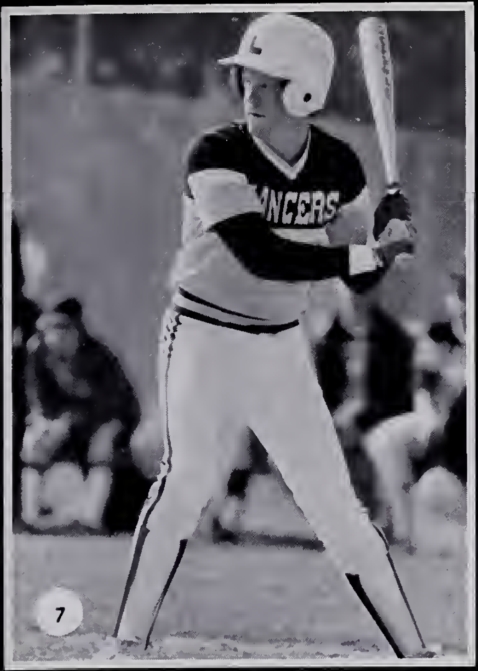
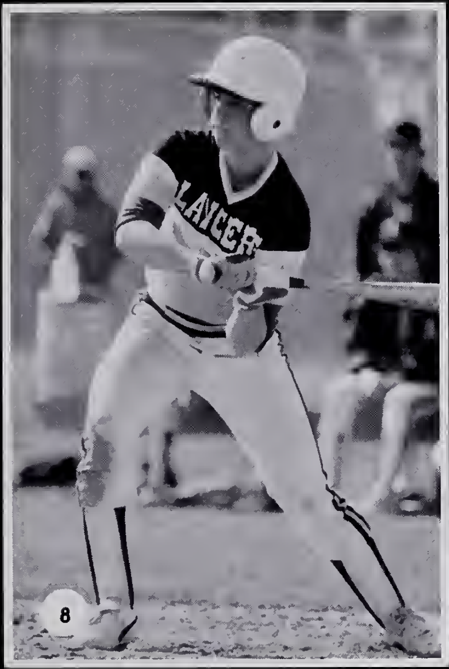
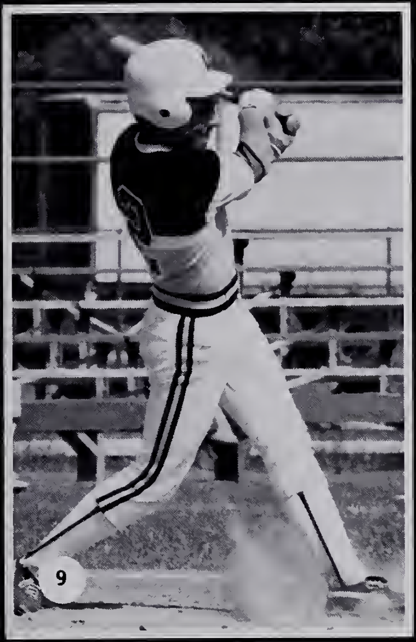
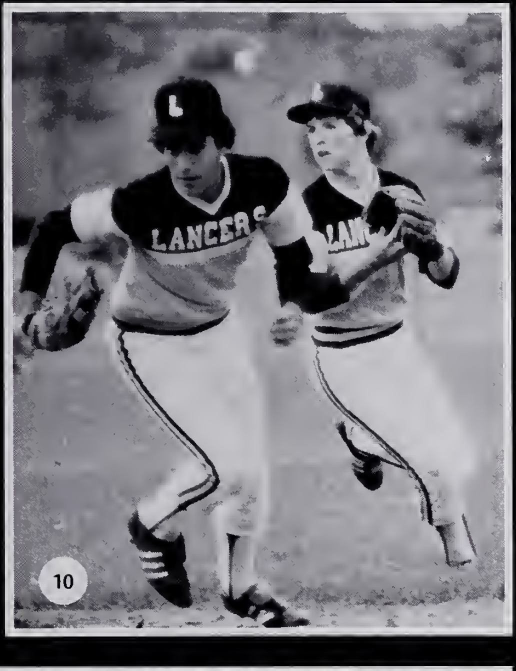
Baseball









Their winning record placing them at the top of B division baseball, the 1983 LHS baseball team was truly outstanding Guiding the team to victory was Coach Michael Deary, with the help of several veteran players. Bob Barkett, Myles Sattler, John Ratkowski, George Bazos, and Tom Ferrin comprised the senior infield, while seniors Scott Hobbs, Danny McLaughlin, and Paul Philbin chased flies in the outfield. Denying any runs to the opposition were junior pitchers Jim Walker and Tom Walbridge, together with senior Mike Achatz. Junior Dan Bowen and sophomore Josh Rappaport will be top contributors in the years to come. The Lancers did very well against rival teams.

Reflecting the team's dedication and enthusiasm, senior Bob Barkett commented, "I think we are the best team to come through here in a long time." With the Western Mass tournament behind them, this squad left its mark on high school baseball.

Tennis

Is it possible to improve on perfection? The '83 boys' tennis team did just that. Depth added strength to a team that was undefeated for the second straight year. Senior captains Matt Daniels and Steve Griffin emerged as two of the top players in Western Mass. Ted Gilman, Dave Lamarre, and Dan Frank took charge of senior doubles.

Similarly, great coaching by Mike McCarthy and hard work by the entire squad propelled the Lancerettes to a 11-1 record and a first place league finish. Lisa Doherty (capt.), Liz Ruark, and Rachel Kittredge competed in singles, while senior captains Naomi Schupack and Linda Davidson handled the doubles with Jen Sweet and Beth Mitchell, respectively. Consequently, our Lancerettes entered the Western Mass tournament with enthusiasm, knowing that this young talent will keep Lancer tennis on top for many years to come.

Track

Make way for the track teams! The strong boys' team, coached by Mr. Winseck, moved up a division, putting them in with tough competition. Ike Glasgow stood out in the sprinting events, while Seth Gladstone had made his mark with the discus and shot put. The long two-miler was run by junior John O'Rourke, but freshman Mark Salwen ran close on his heels.

Working just as hard girls' track had an outstanding year. Coach Al Jangl believes in hard work to prepare the team. Beth Sutton, a senior, ran the 440 with junior Sue Elliot close behind. Alicia Ouellette continually hurled the discus great distances. Stephanie Watnick placed well in the two-mile, while Janet Moser and Shawn Bromley quickly rounded the track in the 220's. Sophomore sprinter Phillipa Chapman, Western Mass. champion in the one-hundred yard dash, blew everyone off the track, but freshman Beth White gained ground.

1. Russ Hubley shows his great hurdling technique. 2. Ike Glasgow leads the relay team to victory. 3. Scott Fleming tries a record breaking jump. 4. Stephanie Watnick enjoys her two-mile run. 5. Golf- Activities

When does it pay to be "teed-off"? Most sunny afternoons you can find a group of L.H.S. students teeing off at the Longmeadow Country Club. The L.H.S. golf team has had an excellent year, having beaten many of their top rivals from last year. Coach Mannheim feels his team has come a long way and will do even better because most of the team will be returning next year. With the help of two talented sophomores, Scott MacIntosh and Buddy Sumner, the team should move even farther up in the standings.

During spring at LHS, students showed the fruits of their yearlong labor. With the warm weather, came Longmeddowe Days, the Arts Festival, a performance by the Concert Chorus, and the Battle of the Bands. The LHS football field served as the battleground for the "Battle of the Bands," a competition for local bands. LHS's own Graphix, a band led by Rod Squire, emerged victorious. Concert Chorus, directed by Mike Mucci, invaded the Community House to perform "Gloria," by Antonio Vivaldi. And the Longmeadow green echoed with shouts and shots as the Longmeddowe Days festival celebrated the Bi-Centennial. Without doubt, spring brought about much excitement and enthusiasm.

On March 10, the curtain rose on ninety-five senior actors and actresses who gave an outstanding performance in Cole Porter's "Anything Goes." Directed, produced, and performed by seniors, the senior class play wsa a great success. Producer, Janine Howell; director, Kim Sweet; vocal director, Karen Rich; choreographer, Angel Wrona; and orchestrial director, Peter Venti contributed greatly to the performance.

The cast consisted of Sue Wenz as Reno Sweeney, Glenn Semel as Billy Crocker, Robert Rubin as Moonface Martin, Maura Malone as Bonnie, Greg Stebbins as Sir Evelyn Okleigh, Sue Cohn as Hope Harcourt, Robin Rogers as Mrs. Harcourt, and about ninety other singers and dancers. Based on a triangular love affair, the plot centers on Hope Harcourt who is engaged to marry Sir Evelyn. With the help of Reno Sweeney, Moonface Martin, and Bonnie, Billy wins Hope from Evelyn. Evelyn then marries Reno, "and everybody lives happily ever after," according to Kim Sweet. She adds, "The play provided an opportunity for our class to work together on something which they could be proud of. I really enjoyed myself."

Besides being in the cast, seniors worked on set crew, stage crew, make up, costumes, props, publicity, box office, ushering, lighting, orchestra, and program committees. About half of the class was involved.

With cooperation, unity, and spirit, the senior class play was a smashing success!

1. Lynne Kaplinsky dances to "Bon Voyage." 2. Greg Stebbins begins his daily meditation. 3. Greg continues breathing exercises. 4. Director Kim Sweet discusses the show. 5. Glenn Semel and Sue Wenz sing "Friendship." 6. Watch it with that gun, Moonface! 7. Maura Malone sings "Let's Step Out!" 8. Classy conductor Peter Venti looks on. 9. Robert Rubin: Would you let this man hear your confession?! 10. The entire cast combines for the big finale.

Prom

Senior Prom, a magical night for the Class of '83, sparkled once again this year on May 31 at the grand ballroom of the elegant Marriott Hotel. The scene was beautiful: long gowns in a rainbow of colors, red carnations on each table, white or black tuxedoes, and even top hats.

The Class of '83 displayed their Lancer spirit through the abundance of black and white finery. The sound of the Shaboo Allstars, a rhythm and blues band, filled the hall. (Comprised of musicians who have played for such well-known names as James Taylor and Steve Miller,) The band was well-received by both faculty and students.

The three-hundred enthusiastic dancers who crowded the dance floor, cooled down by strolling on the romantic terrace. One change the seniors would liked to have made was to hear their theme song, "Changes." By twelve-thirty, the class of 1983 had drifted off to late dinners and small parties. But they would remember this special night forever.

1. Karen Edler and her date in a serious moment. 2. Capable class advisor Ms. Finn. 3. The Shaboo All-stars! 4. Junior ushers enjoying their work at the prom. 5. Mr. and Mrs. Teixeira enjoying the festivities. 6. Rod Squire and Barbara Smith in a romantic moment. 7. Early comers benefit from an uncrowded dance floor. 8. "The climax of twelve years of waiting." That was how guest speaker James Trelease described the June fifth graduation of the Longmeadow High School Class of 1983. After fifteen consecutive weekends of rain, the sun shone brightly upon this year's commencement ceremonies which saw the high school faculty follow the seniors on to the football field. More than three hundred excited seniors listened intently as President Lisa Doherty spoke of the opportunities presented to them at Longmeadow High School, and those waiting for them in the future.

Mr. Trelease, a respected artist and author, described the patience and persistence required to meet and grasp those opportunities, and the satisfaction of doing so.

Grateful seniors honored two retiring faculty members, Mr. Al Lopes and Mrs. Eve Dolgin. Rather than a traditional single gift, President Doherty presented the entire staff with a dinner, compliments of the Class of 1983.

Amid cheers from hundreds of enthusiastic friends, relatives, and classmates, the seniors proudly received their diplomas, concluding years of hard work and wonderful memories. For most, graduation brought thoughts of colleges or jobs. For all, it was a day to celebrate. Good luck and best wishes to the Class of 1983!
